

TRIED TO BRIBE

Rube Benton Tells of Offer Made Him.

Declares Two Wanted Him to "Throw" Ball Game.

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Substantiation of claims of Hartley Replegle, assistant state's attorney, that the 1919 world's series between the Cincinnati Reds and Chicago White Sox was "not on the square," was sought today from witnesses before the Cook county grand jury delving into alleged baseball scandals.

Rube Benton, New York Giants pitcher, arrived today to go before the afternoon session of the inquisitors. Charles Herzog, Chicago Cub player, who claimed Benton admitted making $5,000 in the series on advice of Hal Chase, former player, was also expected to be called.

Benton today denied Herzog's charge. He said he would tell the grand jury of an attempt Herzog made September 11, 1919, to "bribe" him to throw a game.

"The only money I ever won on a baseball game was $20 bet on Cincinnati last year," Benton said today. "I gambled on a baseball game in which I was interested."

Benton said he would tell the jury that Herzog and Chase approached him in a Chicago saloon in September, 1919, and offered him "some easy money" if he would lose the next day's game. He said he refused. Benton pitched the Giants to victory the next day.

The charges against Herzog have been aired before President Hegler of the National league, but were dropped for want of sufficient evidence, Benton said.

"That was the only time I was ever offered anything like throwing a game," Benton said.

The Giants pitcher said he had heard reports of crookedness in baseball but did not intend to put them before the grand jury because he had no proof.

"This investigation, at least, will make some players sure of their step in the future," Benton said. "They'll be scared and not attempt any gambling for a long time."

MILLERAND NOW

his cabinet experience to 1888 when he became a member of the Waldeck-Rousseau cabinet.

His early affiliations were with the radical Socialists, and he always has been keenly interested in labor questions and has fathered numerous measures for the betterment of the working world, notably the old age pension act which became operative in 1905.

It was M. Millerand's services to his country during the great war, however, as minister of war in the Viviani cabinet, and his notable conduct of France's foreign policy as the successor to Clemenceau in the premiership after the "tiger's" retirement last January that raised him into pre-eminent eligibility for the presidency, compelled his reluctant consent to the premiership and stand as a candidate to succeed President Deschanel.

M. Millerand was born in Paris February 19, 1859, and was educated for the bar. His first ministerial post was as minister of commerce, but he served in several other capacities, notably as minister of public works in the Briand ministry of 1909; minister of war in the Poincare cabinet of 1914; and minister of war in the Viviani ministry, to which post he was appointed in August, 1914, shortly after the outbreak of the world war. He held the war ministry until the Viviani cabinet resigned October 23, 1916.

While the peace with Germany was being made, President Poincare, in March, 1919, appointed M. Millerand governor of Alsace-Lorraine, France's regained provinces, and he served in this position until at the request of M. Poincare.

TO STOP WASTE OF GAS

State Is Launching Intensive State-Wide Campaign.

Confronted with a possible gas shortage this winter if immediate steps are not taken, the Kansas Natural Gas Conservation committee is launching a state-wide campaign to eliminate waste.

The committee has been appointed by the Kansas court of industrial relations and consists of T. J. Strickler, chief engineer of the court, chairman; C. H. Humphries, Hutchinson; L. O. Ripley, Wichita; and H. L. Montgomery, representing the gas producing and distributing companies.

"Careful tests have proved conclusively that a large part of the natural gas produced in the United States is wasted," says Chairman Strickler in a letter to the mayors of all cities in Kansas where gas is consumed.

"It is asserted on good authority that less than 15 per cent of the natural gas that comes from the wells is finally utilized, and we are sorry to find that one of the sources of the greatest loss is in the homes of the consumers."

The Kansas court of industrial relations is able to deal directly with the problem of the waste of gas in the pipe line and distributing systems. It is therefore of primary importance that the matter of proper use of gas as fuel be brought home to each user of natural gas in Kansas, and that these users may be shown how to make the old and faulty appliances now in use more efficient at the smallest expense to themselves.

The efforts of the committee at this time are being devoted to a series of conservation demonstrations in the various cities of the state that use natural gas. These demonstrations are now under way.

"In Hutchinson the work has been completed and more than two thousand persons visited the demonstration there. Newton has followed with like enthusiasm. A demonstration at El Dorado will begin this week."

The letter calls upon city officials, newspaper editors, business women's clubs and other organizations to co-operate in making the campaign a success. The mayor will be the head of the movement in each city. The committee will furnish everything necessary for the demonstrations.
